

Good morning, Church. Daily Reading, Psalm 134.

For Friday, September 6th.

Isaiah 40:31 "But those who hope in the Lord will renew their strength.

They will soar on wings like eagles;
they will run and not grow weary,
they will walk and not be faint." (NIV)

While we did not actually mount up with wings, we did strap on our harnesses and fly through the air on the zipline in Ketchikan. The zipline had nine different stations and was sooooo much fun.

My sister and brother-in-law had taken this four years ago and could not wait to do this again. Flying through the air is something usually reserved for those with wings, but the harness provided safety and the ability to allow us to cascade down the side of the hill, traveling from station to station.

This verse reminds us that God is our source of strength, helping us through troubled times and giving us the ability to meet daily challenges. As we wait and trust in His promises, He will provide the strength, the blessings, the direction, the help, or whatever we need.

Just as we had to wait our turns, trust in the hardware given us, connect to the lines we traveled down, rely on the instructions from our guides, we must also trust that God is present with us, providing the resources we need to sustain us through life.

The zipline was amazing and heart pumping, but not as amazing as life is with Jesus and all the blessings He provides.

Happy Friday, I hope you are in church this Sunday.
